UP-TO DATE BANK NOTES. The first of the new $2 and $5 silver certificates are now ready for issue They bid fair to excite as much attention and criticism as the $1 note. Like it they are ambitious, artistic creations, like a leech, and after it is filled and and are totally unlike anything the drops off can be soaked in milk and people are familiar with in the way of paper money. Their fronts are printed The reason these stones are found in in black ink, and their backs in the the stomach of a white deer is given by more ismiliar green. The $2 note was of New York. The frontispiece is an allegorical representation of "science presenting steam and electricity to commerce and manufacture," and consists of five partly nude female figures in graceful posss. The treatment is do. The treatment is described as almost distinctively Ameri- life." can. The general idea of the main design is carried out on the back of the note, the main decorations of which are vignettes of Futton and Morse.

Walter Shirlaw, of New York, designed the $5 note, which is, if anything, more strikingly original than either of the other two. The face is alnest entirely taken up with an allegorical picture representing "America en-lightening the world." America is represented by a beautiful female, part-ly nude, holding in her right hand uplifted a lighted incandescent lamp. She stands upon a representation of the North American continent, and the rays of the lamp are shed in all directions. Reclining at her feet is a female known to be in existence, and they are figure of Fame, with the traditional in the Bellevue hospital, New York; trumpet and a few clothes. Flanking these figures, which occupy the center of the front, is on one side a representa- J. E. The general effect is that of a liberal isplay of electricity and beautiful wones. The treatment of the idea, in-luding decoration, is that of the modern school of renaissance. The back of the note contains portraits of Grant and Sheridan. cross. The soake is from Sumatra.

The captain says it is four fathoms and a half long, which, expressed in shore terms, means twenty-seven feet. He has measured it, but that is what they told him at Sumatra. He thinks the circumference of the big boa is about two feet. He bought the suake on speculation, not by the fathom, and is willing to sell it. Maybe that has something to do with the skipper's estimate of its length. The snake is 30 years old, the skipper says, and long for its age. Among the boa's former companions of the jungle on the voyage are ten Java monkeys, two tailless monkeys, one sacred white monkey (a perfect albino with pink eyes) from Borneo; twelve parrots, one cassowary and one baby elephant. There were originally two white monkeys, but one died. One of the Java monkeys, while suffering rom seasickness, committed suicide by umping from the rigging into the sea.

Mr. J. E. Hauck, of Lewisburg, Pa. has in his possession a madstone, which was found in the stomach of a white deer killed by his father a number of years ago. This stone if applied to a nite into which poison has been injected, at once draws it out, and when its pores are filled drops off. The stone resembes a petrified sponge, and when placed on a bite it sticks to it made ready for another application. the Indians as follows:

Mr. Hauck showed the stone to at old time cowboy, E. L. Simmers, of Shamokin, on Thursday, who has seen the stones used on a number of different occasions, and Mr. Simmers says that of the three stones he has ever seen this one is by far the most perfect.

Mr. Hauck learned some time ago that a man had been bitten in Williamsport by a dog which was supposed to have been mad, and he took the after-noon train for Williamsport and applied the stone to the bite with wonderfu success. Two applications of the stone drew all of the poison and swelling out of the man's leg.

There are only four of these stones
